

Wellings Brothers, AggReclaim, and National Resources

Health and Safety

The company has assigned responsibilities for Health and Safety throughout the organisation.

The Managing Director is ultimately responsible for all Health and Safety matters and the operations manager is responsible for establishing the Health and Safety Policy

Implementation and operation of the Health and Safety Management systems is the responsibility of all managers, supervisors and other employees.

The company has appointed the Health and Safety manager as the competent person to assist the company and other managers in implementing the preventative and protective measures necessary and to ensure the compliance with the relevant legislation
